

Workforce Development Guarantee

What is it?

The TAFE NSW Workforce Development Guarantee is a commitment to invest additional resources in staff capabilities linked to competencies from national qualifications. Within the TAFE NSW Workforce Development Guarantee the five capability areas identified include:

- delivering workforce development services to enterprises
- using technologies to do business
- meeting the needs of diverse learners
- interpreting and customising Training Packages
- leadership

Sydney Institute is offering a range of opportunities for our staff as part of this commitment. These include activities which support:

- delivering workforce services to enterprises – a work based project for staff providing workplace solutions to clients (growth areas)
- recognition services for staff who have gained skills and knowledge through workshops, experience and skills development (targeted groups) and who have not received formal qualifications
- upgrading staff skills to meet technical or professional qualifications or Institute requirements (targeted areas)
- professional development activities offered flexibly and focussing on the five capability areas
- enrolment in a 2009 Sydney Institute course offering (conditions apply).

Learners, employers and stakeholders are telling us we have to extend the way we deliver our services.

We need to develop:

- more flexible ways of delivering services
- different ways to work with Industry and communities to find joint solutions for challenges, which may be more than just training
- a more entrepreneurial culture

What are the costs?

Under the Workforce Development Guarantee there will be no cost for staff for enrolment in a Sydney Institute TAFE course, including where recognition is sought. You will need to invest time in attendance at workshops and in gaining the knowledge and evidence required for recognition and assessment.
